mobilizing the planet

ON-SITE & ONLINE

A symposium that explores the different applications of anthropology beyond traditional academia.

At this edition of WWNA, Mobilising the Planet, we aim to create a collective movement to confront some of the most pressing and challenging global issues of our time.

In an era of multilayered, global crises, witnessing amplified racial biases, segregation, inequality, polarisation, and the collapse of our democratic institutions and of our geosphere, we will create space for cooperation, inspiration and mutual learning.

We want to discuss and act on current social movements: how they emerge, disseminate and create space for different ways of socio-cultural transformation across the globe.

The goal is to mobilize our discipline in connection with those who act as civic activists in the domains of housing and migration justice, feminist and environmental movements. The goal is to give something back - the expertise and energy, to learn from each other and embark on new collaborative projects.

Mobilising the Planet welcomes people from different backgrounds to share their stories, ideas and experiences. Following the paradigm shift from anthropocentric to life-centric, we want to discuss how to create sustainable and liveable futures for different forms of life across the planet Earth, by quitting the reduction of human and non-human life to mere resources to be exploited at our will.

Social events:

At WWNA, we would love to provide our participants with fun free time to enjoy themselves freely amidst all the fuss. That is why we have planned two social events during which you can relax, get to know each other and enjoy your evening in Prague!

SATURDAY - P. M. CLUB

Every revolution needs dancing! After individual dinners, you can reunite with us in P.M. Club, a former cinema hall converted into a popular dance venue with a dash of retro vibes. Take all your friends with you! This event is accessible to WWNA guests as well as their close ones.

SUNDAY - (A)VOID FLOATING GALLERY

We will finish our three-day anthropological cruise on the deck of (A)void Floating Gallery after individual dinners. Let's unwind onboard one of the coolest venues in Prague!
